Quadrilect is the professional development partner of choice for the UK and overseas organisations in the public, private and not-for-profit sectors. Whether you're looking for

- L&D planning and consultancy
- In-house training solutions
- Customised learning
- Qualifications or apprenticeships

We provide high quality solutions in the best format for your needs, including face-to-face and online.

Count on our commitment to quality, flexibility and choice

Choose from our highly-rated face-to-face learning or online programmes, and take advantage of leading-edge industry knowledge and in-depth practical experience through our extensive network of trainers and consultants. Together we can design the best solutions for all levels, from introductory to senior leaders.

Build effective learning and qualification pathways

We can work independently or in partnership with your operational teams, HR / training or other internal specialists to design, plan and implement solutions to complement existing corporate programmes. You can also benefit from the wider links to Quadrilect's public courses, professional qualifications, including BIFM, and other accredited courses in areas such as Health & Safety and Leadership and Management.

What's on your agenda?

Our programme planning and consultancy solutions include:

Talent Management & Succession?

Whether you're looking to grow existing skills or recruit new talent we can support and advise at all stages using our wide-ranging expertise and industry knowledge.

Benchmarking capabilities against industry standards?

We can work with you to access your team's current capabilities against future demands and challenges, providing better targeting of L&D priorities and resources.

Re-defining roles and performance requirements?

Our extensive industry knowledge can help shape your change agenda as an integral part of organisational re-structuring and team development.

L&D planning and impact assesment?

Work with us to refine current and medium-term priorities in line with evolving corporate objectives, and design frameworks to measure and evaluate learning outcomes effectively.

Team transformation?

Our highly applied in-house workshops are designed to take your teams to a new level of confidence and capability. Discover how we can work with you to transform your team's performance in areas such as contract services management, frontline customer service, and sustainability.
